Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-10, 36-47 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-25 of U.S. Patent No. 6,452,247. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the integrated circuit comprising an inductive element arranged on the substrate in a manner that the dielectric and the conductive layer varies in Z-direction as claimed in this application which is considered as the same as the integrated circuit comprising an inductive element arranged in a serpentine pattern comprising at least two rows, the conductive layer having upper segments and lower segments, the upper segments being longer than the lower segments as claimed in the patent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4, 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Stacey.

See Stacey, figs. 1-6 and text on col. 2-3, particularly fig. 5D shows the claimed integrated circuit comprising an inductive element (col. 1, lines 11-30) formed by forming a first dielectric layer 16 in a manner that varied in the Z-dimension; and forming a first conductive layer 24 over the first dielectric layer 16, the first conductive layer 24 also varying in the Z-dimension, the first conductive layer 24 having length and a width, the length being substantially greater than the width, the first conductive layer 24 being arranged in a substantially straight line along the X-dimension, and the first conductive layer 24 comprising upper segments and lower segment, the upper segments being longer than the lower segments.

With respect to claims 2-4, the first dielectric 16 is arranged in a stepped, undulating manner, and in a manner that alternates between trenches and pedestals.

With respect to claim 7, see col. 3, lines 7-8.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Johnson discloses an inductor formed in trench.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10, 36-47 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
